Friends of the Forms Presents

Queer Identity, Spirituality, and the Christian Bible

Join us as we discuss queer identity, spirituality, and the Christian Bible. We'll be talking about the potential implications of being LGBTQ+ and Christian. Why are these two identities often considered to be in conflict? Who, from the Bible, can LGBTQ+ people look to – if anyone? What does all of this mean for us?

Thursday, February 7th at 6:30pm in CLB 102

Dr. Eric Reitan is a Professor of Philosophy at Oklahoma State University, and specializes in the philosophy of religion and ethics. His first book, Is God a Delusion? A Reply to Religion’s Cultured Despisers, was named a Choice Outstanding Academic Title of 2009. His most recent book is The Triumph of Love: Same-Sex Marriage and the Christian Love Ethic.

André Durham is a PhD student in higher education here at OSU, whose research examines the intersection of the development of sexual and spiritual identities in college students. He is also the director of Payne County Pride and co-host of the ‘Our Queer Experience’ podcast.

Hunter Edwards is a master's degree student in Biblical Studies at Oklahoma Christian University. His research examines the application of Queer Critical Theory to Biblical text. He has been a leader in LGBTQ+ programs on OC’s campus.